Youth, 17, Drowns While Visiting in Johnson County

Tragedy Occurs In Heaton Lake Near Ozark

Ray Martindale Drowns; Swimming With 3 Companions

Ray Martindale, 17-year-old Tennessee youth visiting in Johnson county, drowned yesterday in Heaton lake about a half mile west of Ozark.

Young Martindale and an older brother, Robert, of Adamsville, Tenn., were visiting in Ozark briefly at the home of Randall Cluster, Pentecostal minister, en route from Tennessee to Peoria, to visit another brother, Thomas. They are sons of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Martindale of Adamsville.

The youth, who would have been a senior in high school at Adamsville in September, had gone swimming with three companions, one of them Rev. Cluster. He went under shortly before 11 a. m. and was found at 2:25 p. m.

Ray Durbin, one of the four who went swimming, told a Daily Register reporter that the group swam to a raft about 60 or 70 feet from shore. The other boy was Donald Treat.

All but Martindale, the Durbin lad said, swam back to shore and when they turned around they saw him off the raft fighting the water.

Recover Body
"He either jumped or fell off," the boy said. "Cluster swam out to where he was but Martindale fought him off and he couldn't get hold of him to bring him in."

The water was about 12 feet deep where he went under, the Durbin boy stated.

Rescue attempts were started with three boats being put into service. Some dived for the body, others used grab hooks.

At 2:25 p. m. one of the divers, Charles Hambleton, came up and said he had the body. It was put into a boat and brought to shore. Hambleton said he located it on the bottom of the lake in about 10 feet of water.

The lake where the drowning occurred is west of the Lawrence service station on Route 45 at Ozark.

An inquest was scheduled to be held by the Johnson county coroner at the drowning scene.

The brother, Robert, said the body would be returned to Adamsville.

About Town

By TIMOTHEUS T.

I JUST CAME IN from inspecting Dan Dorris' agricultural outlay. I mean that Mr. Dorris has a garden—right there at his service station at Church and Vine alongside The Daily Register office.

Mr. Dorris and I tramped over the acreage, looking at his corn, his tomatoes, his potatoes. They are right behind his service station building, between the building and The Daily Register office.

I counted four tomato plants, two potato vines and four stalks of corn. Like the squirrel, Mr. Dorris isn't dilly-dallying around but is getting ready for the cold, hard winter. When the blizzards are blizzing and the rest of us are wondering what we'll have to eat, Mr. Dorris will have his corn and tomatoes and potatoes.

Mr. Dorris told me he picked up a few grains of corn out of a car, he brought some potato peelings from home and Charlie Dewey gave him some tomato plants. These resulted in his garden.

That's the old American spirit of initiative!

STOP! While I was touring the garden I saw something which I will pass on to all you motorists. The street and alley department of the city was installing stop signs on Church street at Vine. That means that if you're traveling on Church, you've gotta stop at Vine. This action was voted July 6 at the regular council meeting to eliminate danger of a collision at the intersection.

You'd never get anyone here to believe it, but Harrisburg was one of the coolest places in the Midwest yesterday.

The official here was 102 degrees and people sweltered. But throughout Missouri temperatures ranged from 108 to 112, and it was 108 in Vandalia and 105 in Jacksonville, both upstate in Illinois.

Readings higher than 102 were reported throughout the central plains area.

Dallas, Tex., with 110.3 degrees, at Casper, Wyo., with 104, at Rapid City, S. D., with 109, at Columbia, Mo., with 113, and at Springfield, Mo., with 108.

The 101 degrees at Denver, Colo., made it the second time in history that the mile-high city has endured two days of 100-degree heat in a row.

In contrast, near-hurricane winds raised 40-foot waves along the North Carolina coast, a thunder storm toppled a 435-foot television tower in downtown Mobile, Ala., and 82-mile-per-hour winds were clocked at Aberdeen, S. D.

At Albia, Iowa, Joseph B. Edlund, 64, dropped dead as the mercury touched 103 degrees. In Chicago, where the temperature

Governors Cold To Eisenhower Road Proposal

Insist States Should Do Their Own Road Building

BOLTON LANDING, N. Y. (UP)—Gov. Dan Thornton (R-Colo.) assured his fellow governors today that President Eisenhower has no intention of trying to ram his proposed 50-billion-dollar highway program down their throats.

Thornton, golfing pal of the President and chairman of the 46th annual governors conference meeting here, said he had White House assurances that it was only a suggestion and if the governors didn't like it they should come up with a plan of their own.

The Eisenhower proposal was laid before the governors at their annual banquet Monday night in a speech by Vice President Richard M. Nixon, who read from notes prepared by the chief executive.

The governors, many of whom want the federal government to get out of the gas tax and building field, were not favorably impressed.

Thornton told the governors he discussed the matter, before and after the speech, with Sherman Adams, assistant to the president. Thornton said Adams assured him that Mr. Eisenhower agrees that primary responsibility for highways rests with the States and he wanted to work with them in meeting the problem.

The Colorado governor emphasized the closing words of the Eisenhower message in which he urged the governors to think it over and make recommendations.

The discussion then turned to methods of financing highway building. Gov. Goodwin J. Knight of California said if the governors accepted Mr. Eisenhower's program "we will have to let the federal government collect the gas tax."

Gov. William G. Stratton (R-Ill.) said he still didn't see any need for federal action.

Against Federal Gas Tax

Gov. Robert B. Crosby (R-Neb.) took a similar stand.

"The federal government should withdraw from the gas tax for the most part and let the states assume entirely the task of building highways," Crosby said. "The job would be done adequately and competently."

The White House had advance warning of the governors' attitude and Mr. Eisenhower emphasized a need for federal-state cooperation. Mr. Eisenhower said the present highway network is "inadequate locally and obsolete as a national system."

"To start to meet this problem, at this session of congress we have increased by approximately $500,000,000 federal monies available to states for road works," the President wrote.

"Experts say $5,000,000,000 a year for ten years, in addition to current normal expenditures—will pay off in economic growth."

"And, when we have spent $50,000,000,000, we shall only have made a good start on the highways the country will need for a population of 200,000,000 by 1970."

He asked the governors to think it over and recommend the type of cooperative action they feel the federal and state governments should undertake so he could make positive recommendations to the next session of Congress.

REA Approves $340,000 Loan To SEIC Co-Op

The REA at Washington has approved a loan of $340,000 to the Southeastern Illinois Electric co-operative to connect up 66 new consumers, for system improvements and to bring additional power into the area, it was announced late yesterday by Cong. C. W. Bishop.

Thomas Clevenger, manager of SEIC, said the exact breakdown of fund uses is not yet known by him. He said that he must first receive the master budget from the REA administrator to determine for which uses the money has been loaned. This will take two or three weeks, he stated.

Mr. Clevenger said that a loan of $520,000 was applied for originally in December of 1952 and this has undergone a number of revisions until it was approved at $340,000.

See New Attempt to Pressure France, Italy as Committee Rejects Aid Ban

By United Press
Senate Republican leader William F. Knowland said today new efforts may be made to legislate pressure on France and Italy to ratify the European Defense Community treaty.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee Monday voted down a proposal to cut off all aid to the two countries Dec. 31 unless they had ratified the EDC. It did so in approving a $3,100,000,000 foreign aid program.

Military aspects of the measure are now before the Senate Armed Services Committee. Knowland said he "would not be surprised" if that group wrote a cut-off provision back into the bill.

Knowland said he believes the proposal would speed final decision on the European defense pact and would not do any harm. He said "an early, definitive answer on EDC" is necessary.

The aid ban, he said, would be a start on the "agonizing reappraisal" of U. S. foreign policy which Secretary of State John Foster Dulles says will be necessary if EDC is not put into effect.

New radar warning facilities would cost 110 million dollars, although only 65 million dollars is being asked as a starter.

But Chairman Sam Reynolds (R-Neb.) of a Senate District of Columbia subcommittee said he would try to get the full committee to approve the measure. He said picketing the White House "is just a step from rebellion."

Sec'y Seeks to Prevent Sellout In Indochina

Mendes, Eden Meet with Molotov And Chinese Premier

PARIS (UP)—U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles arrived today for a last-ditch attempt to stiffen the French against a sell-out peace in Indochina.

Dulles was weary after his sudden and dramatic transatlantic flight from Washington.

He went immediately to the home of U. S. Ambassador C. Douglas Dillon where he was to rest and hold a strategy session in advance of his show-down meeting tonight with French Premier and Foreign Minister Pierre Mendes-France and Britain's Anthony Eden.

Mendes-France and Eden flew in from Geneva for the meeting.

Meetings at Geneva

Before leaving the scene of the Far Eastern peace conference, both Eden and Mendes-France had held a flurry of conferences with Russian Foreign Minister Vyacheslav Molotov and Red China's Premier and Foreign Minister Chou En Lai in an attempt to learn the Reds' minimum peace terms.

Hanoi dispatches indicated the French were ready to abandon the whole of the Red River Delta, including Hanoi, possibly retaining only the port of Haiphong in north Indochina.

Eden, while reportedly standing firm with the United States for an "honorable" peace, was said to be leaning toward a settlement which would give the Reds all the territory north of the 16th or 17th parallel.

The 16th parallel would include the huge airbase of Tourane, the only base in Indochina built to NATO specifications and capable of handling even the giant U. S. B38 atom-carrying bombers.

U. S. Fears Loss
U. S. military observers have said that to surrender Tourane would open the whole of southeast Asia to the Reds.

Dulles indicated on his arrival that he will push again for French and British agreement on a southeast Asia defensive pact on the lines of the North Atlantic treaty, and also will urge quick French action on joining a European army.

He recalled that it was just three months ago today that he arrived in Europe to urge a southeast Asia pact for the first time.

Dulles' Feelings Unchanged
"I still feel the same way," he said.

"The United States is not itself a belligerent, and therefore not a proper party to many aspects of the problems which are the principal concern of the Geneva conference," he said.

"However, we do have a great and continuing interest in collective action by France, Great Britain and the United States, and other free countries to promote the peace and freedom of the area."

"This, as well as pressing European problems, will I hope, be among the subjects of our conversations here, which are bound to re-emphasize to the Communists the futility of their efforts to divide us," Dulles said.

Death Takes Mrs. Wm. T. Hunsaker

Mr. Hunsaker preceded her in death on March 12, 1929. She was born in Butler county, Ky., January 24, 1866, and had been a resident of Harrisburg for 50 years.

NO DIVIDEND OF FRIENDSHIP IS SOUGHT FOR FOREIGN AID

Editorial — BY BRUCE BROSSAT In the debate on the $3,470,000,000 foreign aid bill, Rep. Clarence Brown of Ohio made an argument that bears a careful, critical look.

Noting that the United States has poured out more than $141 billion in aid since 1940 (and here he obviously is including Lend-Lease in World War II), Brown said we "now have more enemies and less friends than when we started."

Implicit in this statement is the notion that we have sought to "buy friendship" abroad with American dollars, and have failed. A good many lawmakers in recent years have been making similar comment, often quite outspokenly and in the manner of one making a great revelation.

Actually, no sensible legislator or diplomat ever imagines that money purchases the affection of foreign peoples. Aid can help to cement existing friendships, or help to develop them. But many other important factors must also be present.

We have not given assistance to many nations, in war and peace, in the hope of thereby winning their unwavering loyalty to all America's views.

We have given it because we want these countries to remain free for their own sake, and because they must stay free if they are to be a part of our defensive barrier against communism.

In some instances, we have quite understood that the recipients of aid might not only disagree with us on many things, but actively dislike us. But that has not kept us from extending the aid, and it should not.

Thus the point about what friendships we have or have not won with our dollars is largely irrelevant. The real question is: "Are the peoples we have helped still free, and in a position to aid the cause of freedom in the world (including America)?"

The answer must be a resounding "yes," with the single possible exception of Indo-China, now tottering on the brink. But Indo-China has been embroiled in a war most of the time since aid programs have been operating.

Is there any doubt what would have been the fate of France and Italy, and perhaps others, if we had not granted substantial assistance in the dark days after World War II?

As for the statement that we now have more enemies, the fact is we have made no new enemies since the Communist coup in Czechoslovakia in 1948, the very year our vast postwar aid program began.

We do indeed have enemies today that we did not have in 1940. But these consist of Russia proper, of its European satellites brought to heel by the Red Army or the threat of it, of Communist China, and of the Red puppets of Russia and China in North Korea and Indo-China.

These became our enemies not because any aid program failed but because Communist leaders after the war returned to their goal of global conquest, and had the power of the Russian and Chinese armies to back up their determination.

All the gold in Fort Knox could not have removed a single Red foot soldier from the soil of Rumania, or Hungary, or East Germany.

Foreign aid justifies itself as a great support to the free world system. It is not essential that the system be lubricated with honeyed words of friendship.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says: Ike Himself Decided To Sue United Fruit Company; Eisenhower Blamed By Congressmen For Giving Income-Tax Returns To McCarthy; McCarthy Has Access To Internal Revenue Confidential Files.

WASHINGTON. — The question of whether the Justice Department should bring a monopoly suit against the United Fruit Company during the Guatemalan revolt went all the way up to the cabinet before a decision was reached.

Inside fact is that the suit was begun a long time ago by assistant attorney general Graham Morison, and when attorney general Brownell took over, United Fruit lawyers remarked: "This is some of that nonsense of the Democrats and should be tossed out immediately."

However, Eisenhower's new trust buster, Judge Stanley N. Barnes, decided differently. It took him about 30 minutes to decide that there was a definite case against United Fruit for its banana monopoly in Central America. When he took up the case with the new attorney general, however, Brownell was cautious.

"Talk to the United Fruit lawyers about it before you file suit," he advised. "Hear their side of the story first."

Brownell was advised by subordinates that the Justice Department policy to confer with offending parties when the government had an airtight case. Nevertheless, in deference to Brownell's instructions, intermittent conferences took place between United Fruit attorneys and the antitrust division for about a year.

This was what delayed action until about the time of the Guatemalan revolt. It was then that the case was finally sent to President Eisenhower himself. He in turn took it up in a cabinet meeting.

Secretary of State Dulles was all for the suit. He felt it would show the United States was not working for United Fruit alone, but championed smaller companies in Latin America.

Secretary of Defense Charles Wilson, however, was opposed. Once head of the biggest corporation in America, General Motors, Wilson didn't like the idea of an antitrust suit against United Fruit.

However, it was Wilson's opposition, according to White House aides, that decided President Eisenhower to go ahead. He doesn't by any means always do just the opposite of what Wilson recommends; but in this case, Wilson's arguments seemed to convince Ike that the Justice Department was right.

IKE HELPS JOE President Eisenhower has received an interesting letter from a Democratic congressman. He is Emanuel Celler of Brooklyn, who wrote Ike accusing him of playing right in to McCarthy's hands by giving McCarthy confidential income-tax returns. It's a penitentiary offense for others to get these returns.

"Permit me to draw your attention to executive order 10435, which you issued on Feb. 6, 1953," Congressman Celler wrote, referring to Eisenhower's order giving McCarthy access to income-tax returns. "This," reminded Celler, "was soon after you entered the White House."

"As you very well know, the policy of the junior senator from Wisconsin is never to defend himself against charges, but to attack the individual who accuses him.

"If the committee which he heads had a different chairman I would not have any objection to this order. You can readily appreciate, however, that a person guilty of his irresponsibility should not receive the aid and comfort involved in this executive order."

Congressman Celler might have added that McCarthy happens to be on friendly terms with the commissioner of internal revenue, T. Coleman Andrews, who once introduced McCarthy to a Richmond, Va., audience as one of the nation's greatest Americans — even though Andrews was supposed to be investigating McCarthy's taxes at the time.

It may be because of this friendship that McCarthy has been able to get all sorts of tax returns from the Treasury even though his committee has not voted to get them. Under Senate committee rules, a majority of the committee is supposed to pass on any request for income-tax returns. But, without waiting for such a vote, Andrews makes tax returns available to McCarthy.

McCarthy, in turn, has various investigators, not on the Senate payroll, but paid by his Texas oil friends, who have access to these confidential tax returns. This sets up an SS elite corps of private investigators working for one group of citizens against another.

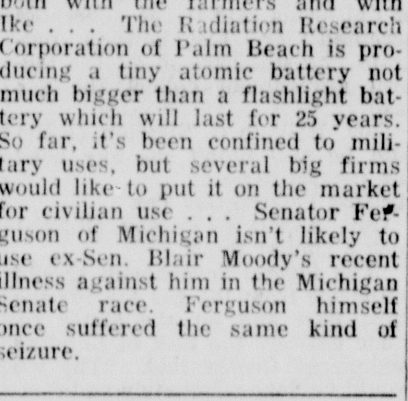

Note — Meanwhile, two of McCarthy's elite corps have failed to get security clearance.

WASHINGTON PIPELINE Walter Winchell is helping peddle the yarn that every anti-McCarthy newspaper in the U. S. A. has someone on the editorial staff placed there by Communists. When Winston Churchill was entertained by the National Press Club, the only distinguished speaker who got no applause when introduced was Adm. Lewis Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission. — Senator Schoepel of the great farming state of Kansas and a member of the Agricultural committee switched his vote on the farm bill in midstream. Originally he voted for 90 per cent of parity price supports. Then, with the vote 9 to 6 for 90 per cent, Schoepel got credit for supporting Eisenhower by changing his vote. This made the lineup 8 to 7 for 90 per cent parity, and Schoepel could take credit for voting both with the farmers and with Ike.

The Radiation Research Corporation of Palm Beach is producing a tiny atomic battery not much bigger than a flashlight battery which will last for 25 years. So far, it's been confined to military uses, but several big firms would like to put it on the market for civilian use. — Senator Ferguson of Michigan isn't likely to use ex-Sen. Blair Moody's recent illness against him in the Michigan Senate race. Ferguson himself once suffered the same kind of seizure.

Strength is Key to Survival: Lindbergh

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Pioneer aviator Brig. Gen. Charles A. Lindbergh said Monday the nation's best chance to survive in the atomic age lay in America's "indestructible power to destroy."

Lindbergh said he believed that great military strength, including a "prodigious air force" was the key to survival in a world where the H-bomb and guided missiles virtually have eliminated defense networks.

The famed aviator painted a gloomy picture of future war in an article written for the Saturday Evening Post.

In the near future, according to Lindbergh, atomic warheads in long-range rockets will be added to the arsenal of our potential enemies "which we do not know how to intercept at all."

Hoover Answers Stevenson Charge On Public Power

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Former President Adlai E. Stevenson's charge that he "vetoed the first large scale attempt to develop this nation's hydroelectric power."

Mr. Hoover also denied he ever recommended the federal government should get out of the electric power business.

"On the contrary," he said, "I have advocated multiple-purpose dams when justified for the past 30 years."

"Further, I had a large part in bringing about and almost completed during my administration, the construction of the first and largest multiple-purpose dam in our country. This was the Hoover Dam on the Colorado River," he said.

"During my administration we prepared the plans and I recommended the construction of Grand Coulee; it was later built as planned."

Stevenson, 1952 Democratic presidential candidate, made the charge in a speech here Saturday. Mr. Hoover, who has been vacationing on the McKenzie River, gave his answer here before taking off for San Francisco in a private plane Monday.

Cadillac

No Compromise This Time!

It was over twenty years ago that he took title to his first motor car—and, since that time, he has owned and driven almost a dozen different automobiles.

And yet, every time he accepted the keys to a new car, he knew in his heart that it was a compromise.

For—like so many millions of his fellow men—he had his heart set on a Cadillac!

Well, there's no compromise this time! The magic moment has arrived. The papers are all in order... the keys are in his hand... and the car of his dreams is waiting for him to take the wheel. It's his!

And, if you could but ride with him on that first journey, you'd understand what it means to have a motoring dream come true.

You'd see excitement in his eyes as he rolls majestically through the city's traffic—and puts his Cadillac through its thrilling paces on the open road.

You'd see honest pride in his face as he sits, calmly and serenely in the driver's seat, and catches the admiring glances of his fellow motorists.

And you'd sense the joy in his heart as he turns down that familiar street and heads for the happiest homecoming of the year!

In short, you'd witness a motorist in his finest hour—living out an experience that has no counterpart in the world of transportation. It is a thrill and an inspiration and an education—all rolled into one.

A friend of ours put it this way. "There are two kinds of automobiles," he told us. "There are Cadillacs—and there are all the others."

Whether or not you've driven "all the others", we can't say. But of one thing we are certain: Until you've spent an hour in the driver's seat of a 1954 Cadillac, your motoring education is not complete.

Why not come in soon and do so?

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Hold false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug counter.

Capital City
Longyearbyen (Longyear City), administrative capital of Spitsbergen, was named for John M. Longyear, a Bostonian who in 1905 conducted the first large scale coal mining operations in the icy Arctic archipelago.

Silica, principal ingredient of glass, is the basis of all clay soils and one of the common elements of the earth's crust.

Does part of the wheel of a moving train stand still for a moment as it touches the rails? Yes, if there is no slippage. A point on the rim of the wheel is traveling at twice the train speed when it is on top, and is stationary for an instant when at the bottom in contact with the rail face. A point on the edge of the flange, which extends beyond the rim, is actually moving backwards for a brief period as it passes below the top of the rail.

Modernization Of A-Law Urged By Committee

WASHINGTON (UP)—The House Senate Atomic Energy Committee declared today that this nation's "preponderance" of atomic weapons can offset the superior numerical strength of the Communists and doom Red military aggression.

But it warned that the present "outmoded" atomic law can deny the nation "the true promise of atomic energy" for war as well as for peace.

In a formal report, the committee recommended an "across-the-board modernization" of the 1946 Atomic Energy Act. It urged passage of its bill to free more atomic information to stimulate free world progress, to promote development of an atomic power industry and to lay the groundwork for President Eisenhower's atomic pool plan.

Members split sharply, however, on details of the revision plan. Chairman W. Sterling Cole (R-N.Y.) contended that the bill's requirement for compulsory licensing of atomic patents aims at "Socialism run rampant."

The committee report was made public as the Senate prepared to begin debate on the measure later today. The bill incorporates most of the atomic program proposed by President Eisenhower and administration leaders have predicted its passage.

The bill would permit the transfer of peacetime atomic information to other free nations. And it authorizes transfer of non-nuclear information on weapons to our allies.

It also would permit the licensing of companies to use and produce nuclear fuels in power operations and establish safeguards to protect the government's interests in all cases.

Wife Sobs as Wilness Tells of Her Affair with Man Slain by Husband

ALLEGAN, Mich. (UP)—The attractive wife of society dentist related that Small told him he had sent his wife and three children to Florida this spring, where she would be with him, the president of New York City's Majestic Air Conditioning Co.

Ogden said Small told him that when his wife returned she asked for a divorce to marry Lack. He said Small told him how his wife traced her to the summer home when she was supposed to be in Chicago visiting a girl friend.

"I knew she was with Lack," Ogden quoted him as saying.

Ogden said when he arrived at the home, Small was standing in the driveway and said:

"I'm the one you're looking for. I shot the s. o. b. and that's all there is to it."

Mrs. Small, who had appeared to be weeping under her dark glasses at several points previously, ran from the courtroom at this point.

Waives Chance To Plead Guilty
Two key prosecution witnesses testified under sharp cross-examination Monday that Small acted "insane" when he stormed into the living room of the fashionable Lake Michigan home and shot Lack twice, once in the heart.

They also testified that Small's wife would not have been invited to the home had it been known that she was married and planned a rendezvous there with the wealthy New York manufacturer.

Small and his attorney, in accepting the first-degree murder charge, waived a chance to plead guilty to a lesser charge of manslaughter, which carries a maximum sentence of 15 years in prison.

First-degree murder calls for a mandatory life sentence, but a finding of temporary insanity would allow Small to be committed to a state hospital for the criminally insane. The defense attorney has indicated he would then move for an examination to have Small pronounced sane, which would require he be given his freedom.

Alton police said they learned that the driverless car had faulty brakes. The car was owned by Wayne Wallace, who told police he had planned to junk the car but loaned it to a friend, Floyd J. Kennedy.

Kennedy told officers he parked the car at the top of a hill in gear and with its wheels turned in toward the curb.

Police said another group of youngsters later got into the car and played as though they were driving, turning the steering wheel. They had departed when the car roared down the hill and struck a retaining wall at the Williams' home on which the children were sitting.

Three other youngsters were injured. One, 7-year-old Linda O'Neal, is in critical condition

VanderPluym, Exide Garage Have Been On Vine Street Since 1919

By Alta Porter

Neighbors of the Exide garage are welcoming back to 38 South Vine street, Connie VanderPluym and his associates in the Studebaker agency and the automobile repair shop, part of which has been at that number for 30 years.

In fact the Exide garage had its beginning as a battery shop at 42 South Vine street, back in 1919, when on January 19, Connie VanderPluym and Ray McIntyre, newly mustered out of military service following World War I, formed a partnership and opened a tire and battery shop.

They had worked together before the war for the New York Central Railway. VanderPluym was mustered out of service as a private in the Tank Corps at Fort Dix, N. J., and the commanding officer signing his discharge was Col. Dwight D. Eisenhower, now president of the United States. McIntyre was a private in the infantry.

Connie VanderPluym

New Building By Raley

At the time they formed their partnership Vine street, from Church to Poplar, consisted of a row of dilapidated wooden buildings, excepting the old City hall building, now Tucker's cafe. At one time there had been saloons along this narrow street and it became known as "Whisky Chute."

The young tire and battery men were hustlers. They had gone into business on a "shoe string," and were much befriended by the loan of tools owned by the late Frank Youngs, whose second hand furniture store was on the corner.

Their enterprise and intentions to get ahead so impressed the late Rufe Raley that he erected for their use the brick building which they occupied in 1924. At that time the building seemed so spacious to them that they wondered how in the world they would fill it up.

Fire Chief 1919 to 1939

While they were moving in the late Loren (Dock) Creelius and Fritz Hagge, Armour salesman, drove company cars, which were little Ford coupes, and Fritz who was looking for a place of rental storage for their cars, drove in and circled the building several times, after which he arranged to rent storage space. Soon several other proud possessors of larger cars, who did not want them to set out in the weather all day, were using Exide rental stalls, and of course when their autos needed batteries, tires or repairs, Connie and his helpers were on hand to render service.

Mr. VanderPluym was chief of the Harrisburg Fire Department from 1919 to 1939 and the old "Brockway" fire truck was also kept at the Exide.

McIntyre went into business for himself in 1929 and later accepted employment at the Humm Motors, where he is working as a mechanic at this time.

Built Apartments

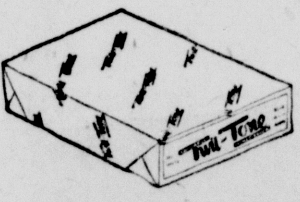

In 1936 during the depth of the depression Mr. VanderPluym became the Studebaker agent in Harrisburg, and sold his first Studebaker to the late N. N. McKee, mechanical foreman at The Daily Register.

During World War II, when it was difficult to fill orders for new automobiles, the Studebaker dealer turned his attention to cleaning up the slummy appearance of Vine street. He bought the ground between the Exide building and the City hall, cleared off an old feed store which faced Cherry street, and a shack facing Vine street.

On Cherry street the Varsity apartment building was erected, and the demand for apartments was such that the nine modernly equipped apartments there were spoken for long before the building was completed. It was occupied in October of 1947.

Boost for Vine Street

Building so soon after the war had its trials because of the shortage of all kinds of materials, and never did Mr. VanderPluym appreciate so much the business standing he had with certain individuals who used their influence to help him to obtain the needed steel, flooring and windows, which were in extremely short supply.

Completion in October 1948 and occupancy of the Varsity and Studebaker Building with four apartments upstairs came at a time that housing was in demand and without a doubt the improvement made by these new buildings, and the new addition to The Daily Register across the street, boosted South Vine street property values 40 per cent.

Mr. VanderPluym was ill during the period of construction of the Studebaker building, and although his health has improved, he found the operation of his automobile business, and the apartments such a burden that last April he sold the two new buildings to Dr. E. M. Travelstead, who plans to move his dental office to the Vine street building as soon as it is ready, following necessary alterations.

Plans Improvements

With the consolidation of the automobile agency and garage in its original location, the owner plans to modernize the office and make numerous other improvements. Work is underway now on the first project. Recently there has been added to the shop equipment a steam which he thinks is one of the finest pieces of equipment that has ever been used in cleaning automobiles. The Bear wheel balancing equipment at this shop attracts a great deal of business from other garages and the parts department is a very important one. Robert Frantz, son-in-law of Mr. VanderPluym, is in charge of the parts department and is his chief office assistant.

Mr. VanderPluym's son, John, who graduated from Southern Illinois university, Carbondale, and was a salesman at the Studebaker agency, gave up that work early this spring, when he was asked to fill a coaching vacancy at the Harrisburg Township high school. John VanderPluym is now head football coach of the McLeansboro high school.

Employees Have Long Tenure

Three men at the Exide have a tenure of more than 22 years. Loren Fleming, in charge of the automobile cooling system, has been there 25 years. Albert Scadden, brake department foreman, has been there 22 years, and Lawrence Owens, night foreman, has been there 24 years. Orval Sowers Jr., mechanical foreman, has been employed for 14 years. Each is thorough and efficient in his work, Mr. VanderPluym said.

His primary aim in business has always been not sales but service, and the repeat business year-after-year at the Exide is the direct result of this unvarying principle.

First Illinois Peaches to Reach Market This Week

CARBONDALE, Ill. (UP)—Illinois grown peaches of early varieties will be available in limited volume this week, the Illinois Fruit Council said today.

The limited amounts of early peaches for eating fresh will be harvested by Illinois growers in force starting about July 18 through Aug. 5. After that, the growers will start picking the Elbertas which make up 80 per cent of the Illinois crop.

Illinois-grown peaches will be available for a period of about six weeks, Harvey B. Hartline, Carbondale orchardist, said. Hartline's orchards south of here produce some of Illinois' earliest peaches. The Illinois harvest extends through the state to Rock Island County where growers expect to pick Elbertas as late as Sept. 10.

Curt Eckert, Belleville, president of the fruit council, said the ripening of the first peaches coincides with observance of "National Peach Week" in Illinois, July 19-26, when the Illinois fruit queen, orchard owners and industry members will make radio and television appearances throughout the state.

Kerr Opponent for Senate Drops Out of Runoff Election

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP)—Sen. Robert S. Kerr apparently won Oklahoma's Democratic senatorial nomination today by virtue of his chief opponent's reluctance to wage a costly runoff battle.

Former Gov. Roy J. Turner, who ran second to Kerr in last Tuesday's primary, Monday night dropped out of the scheduled July 27 runoff election between them.

Turner, like Kerr an oil millionaire, said "lack of finances and that lack only" forced his withdrawal.

James Hurst, representative of the Home Insurance Company, St. Louis, was the speaker at last night's Rotary club meeting held in the Masonic temple. Hurst was introduced by Harker Miley. Hurst spoke chiefly on the subject of earnings insurance for small businessmen. He outlined the protection of this type insurance provides and showed the group a pictorial presentation recently developed by his company. Prior to turning the program over to Mr. Miley, John Foster, newly installed president of the organization, presented fellow officers for the coming year and made several chairmanship appointments. The cause of death was not revealed. Vizzini had undergone an operation at Palermo, capital of the island whose inhabitants both loved and feared him. There was no proof that Vizzini

About three miles from Dellville the road followed the ridge line of some old glacial hills, curving back and forth in a series of S-turns. Coming out of the last turn, the road straightened as it dipped down a long straight hill. At the bottom there was a long steel bridge, and from the bridge on, the road ran straight as a string to Dellville.

That last turn meant the end of the leader's stint. From there on he held the lead—if he could. And no matter who had been in command until that turn, it was every man for himself as there was a free-for-all scramble to see who would be first in Dellville.

Ricky took them around the S-turns as fast as they had ever made them, their tires screeching as their rear wheels fought to tear loose. Coming out of the last turn he forced his coupe wide open as he went down the long hill to the bridge. He didn't know how fast he was going. He didn't dare look.

He hung on as he booted his car down the hill and hoped it would hold together. He flashed across the bridge and onto the flat, gas pedal jammed to the floor.

But he didn't have it. Once they were off the bridge, Link's car moved to the left, Link turned on his brights, and the yellow convertible moved past and pulled away. As always, Link would be the first one home.

It was hopeless, but Ricky hung on, flying along wide open, but forced to watch Link's red tail lights widening the gap between them. He would be second into town, but there was no solace in that. There would have to be a time when he was first. When he led all the way home. If he could just beat Link once, fair and square, he'd be satisfied.

Someday he'd have the power to do it, and then Link would chew his dust. He wouldn't give up until Link followed his lights into Dellville.

Arnie Van Zuuk stood outside the police station waiting hopefully for a little breeze to make the night more bearable. A huge mass of sweat and discomfort, he closed his eyes as he laboriously breathed in the heavy air and listened.

He opened his eyes at the sound of footsteps. A moment later Ricky's father joined him. Madison was wearing a pair of striped wash pants and a short sleeved sport shirt.

"Evening, Arnie."

"Evening, Mr. Madison."

"It's a hot night."

"Ya. You can hear the corn grow tonight, I bet."

The slender bank cashier seemed troubled. He looked pale and uncertain in the light that streamed from the jail window and reflected on his long balding head and rimless glasses.

"Have you seen the boys tonight, Arnie?"

"Earlier. They drove toward Des Moines."

"I don't like it," Madison said, looking in the direction the boys

Union Leaders Hit Walkout At Oak Ridge

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. (AP)—An "unauthorized" construction strike, the second walkout in two weeks, idled 8,000 workers at this sprawling atomic city today despite an appeal by union leaders to return to work.

AFL laborers on two huge atomic plants under construction, one the super secret Y-12 project, threw up picket lines Monday after rejecting a wage offer by Associated General Contractors.

Some 8,000 other AFL craftsmen refused to cross the picket lines. AFL leaders said the new strike was "unauthorized" and appealed to craftsmen to ignore the picket lines and return to work but only some 340 of approximately 1,000 workers on the night shift at the two projects reported Monday night.

The AGC wage offer rejected by the union was not disclosed but the laborers had earlier asked for a 15-cent an hour increase and travel pay. Wage hikes of from 5 to 10 cents had been accepted by six other AFL construction crafts in contracts covering 15,000 construction workers in east Tennessee.

Last week's walkout involved about 4,500 CIO production workers at the Oak Ridge and Paducah gaseous diffusion plants. It was ended after three days when the government threatened to bring an injunction under the Taft-Hartley Labor Law.

Among new ingenious devices is a magnetometer, an electronic gadget contained in a case similar to an aerial bomb. With it dangling from a plane, scientists can check the mineral deposits in thousands of square miles in a matter of hours.

New York Giants And Carl Hubbell IN THE Sport Parade

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — There could be a modern parallel for the unbelievable New York Giants in today's All-Star game.

Just 20 years ago the greatest individual feat in the history of the classic was turned in by a member of the Giants at a time when his team was leading the National League race. King Carl Hubbell set down in order five of the greatest hitters in the American League.

But that was the year the Giants held a lead of 7½ games on Labor Day — and blew the flag to the Cardinals.

Dead Dodgers

They are right up there with a fat lead of five and one-half games now. Everybody seems to think that the Brooklyn Dodgers are dead and from here on it will be a cakewalk for the Giants.

This remains to be seen.

But you can't argue with the fact that Hubbell's performance back there two decades ago was the finest in the annals of the dream game.

It has been told often how, as the second All-Star game began in 1934, the lean, lantern-jawed Hubbell gave up a single to Charley Gehring and walked Heinie Manush. The next man up was the mighty Babe Ruth, to be followed in order by Iron Man Lou Gehrig and burly Jimmy Foss.

"It was quite a spot," the taciturn, gray-haired Hub recalls with a slow grin.

Strikes Out Three
But he struck out Ruth and fanned Gehrig. And then, to prove it wasn't luck, slipped a called third strike past the right-hand hitting Foss.

Going into the second inning, Hubbell struck out Al Simmons and then made it five in a row by getting Joe Cronin, baseball's hardest hitting shortstop, with a twisting screwball. Bill Dickey broke his skid with a single but Hubbell finished off the inning by fanning Lefty Gomez for his sixth strikeout in two innings.

It was a tremendous performance. Yet the fact which is lost in the dusty years of appreciation is that after such an inglorious start the American Leaguers went on to win that game by a score of 9-7.

And that the Giants of 1934, winging along on top just as they are today, that year blew an even bigger lead than they now possess in the National League race.

Karnes, Cokes, Excel, Palace Win Kiwanis Tilts

Karnes Hardware, the Coca Cola, Excel Market and Palace Clothing, House added victories to their Kiwanis league records in baseball play Monday.

Karnes rallied in late innings to take a 11-10 decision from Pickford's Flowers.

Pickford's got off to a six-run first inning, but Karnes kept plugging away rallying for four in the fourth and a big fifth frame, to get the victory. Dale Martin was the big batter for Karnes, getting a grand-slam homer in the fourth inning. Heiner was the winning pitcher and D. Pickford the loser.

The Cokes edged out Thompson's Texaco Chiefs, 6-5, with Bottomley the winner and Wathen the loser.

Excel clubbed the Athletic House 16-6. Childs received credit for the win and Molinarolo took the loss. Childs and Speaks of the winners and Hassett and Foster of the losers each accounted for two hits.

However Mitchell with a bases-clearing triple struck the big blow for the winning Excel club.

Palace was credited with a 9-0 victory over the Sahara Coals.

Meacham Wins Three Firsts in Stock Car Races

Two out-of-town drivers, Howard Meacham of Grand Tower and Johnny Myers of Decatur, along with Glen Gibbs of Harrisburg took the lion's share of honors at the stock car racing program at the Saline County Speedway Monday night.

Meacham drove his EJ7 to three first places and two seconds. Myers had a first, two seconds and a third. Gibbs took two firsts and a third.

Eighteen cars were on hand for the time trials, but one rolled on the west curve and the driver was injured, reducing the field to seventeen.

There were several other crack-ups during the evening, but no injuries.

Campanella Receives Encouraging Report On Injured Hand

BROOKLYN (AP) — If Roy Campanella hits a home run in the All-Star game at Cleveland today — as he promised — it will be largely due to the encouraging report he received on the temporary partial paralysis of two fingers on his left hand.

Dr. Herbert F. Fett, who examined the Dodger catcher's injured hand, gave him a clean bill of health Monday.

Dr. Fett assured both Campanella and the Dodgers that the temporary paralysis of the two fingers will disappear soon, and that Campy will be able to grip a bat as he had done before.

"I feel so great about the news," said Campanella, the starting catcher on the National League All-Star team, "that I'm going out there to Cleveland and hit a homer in that game."

Court Orders Pro 'Jumper' to Remain in NFL

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — National Football League Commissioner Bert Bell said today he was "very pleased" with a court decision that ordered a prospective Canadian League "jumper" to stay in the NFL.

But Bell refused to comment on what effect the temporary injunction issued Monday against former Syracuse lineman Bob Fleck would have in the NFL's running battle with the Canadian loop for star players.

After the temporary injunction was issued in Chester County Court by Judge Ernest Harvey, Fleck agreed to play for the Green Bay Packers who in turn, agreed to drop legal action against the 22-year old Coatesville, Pa., tackle.

Bell stressed that the court action was "an out-and-out opinion on the NFL player contract."

"I believe that it's a good thing," Bell said, referring to the decision made on a complaint against Fleck by Green Bay, who signed the player last February for $7,000 a year, and a $750 bonus.

Fleck was reported to have received an offer of $8,000 and a $1,000 bonus for signing with the Ottawa Rough Riders.

The NFL czar flatly predicted that the legal battle would not affect Fleck's future in the league or in the game.

"All along, Green Bay told me the only thing they wanted out of the case was to have Fleck play for them next season."

Looking AT Sports

By BILL MELTON
We are continuing with the Sporting News Baseball Quiz, but notice that the offer for a complimentary copy of the News, for totalling a high score, has been withdrawn.

Good fans gather 'round during the hot summer days (when they're not at the ball park or reading The Sporting News) and talk about the "good old days" when there were Cobbs, Sislers, Hornsby's, Speakers and the like on the playing field. To the old-timers, the twenties is when they HAD the ball players. So this week we're going back 30 years for a review of the 1924 season.

1. Babe Ruth topped the American League hitters with a .378 average—but can you name the player who had the most hits?
() Cobb () Collins () Goslin () Heilmann () Jamieson () Rice

Here is how you score yourself: Mark your choices 1-2-3 or 4. If you're right on a first choice you get ten points. On a second pick you're good for five on a third, three points and one for a fourth guess. If you score more than twenty points on this The Sporting News Baseball Quiz, you're doing all right. Fifty points is perfect. Let's go on to the second question.

2. The Babe had 46 homers that season—but can you name the player who was second in the A. L. home run derby?

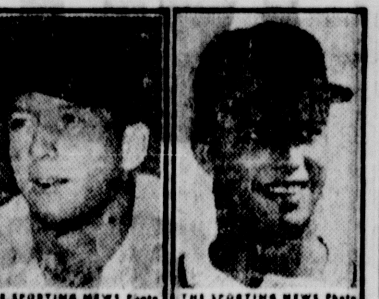

() Goslin () Hauser () Jacobson () Meusel () Judge () Williams

3. Rogers Hornsby led the National League in batting with a .424 mark—and there were 23 players playing in 100 or more games who batted over the 300 mark—but only five players batted in 100 or more runs. Who led the National League in runs batted in in 1924?

() Bottomley () Fournier () Hornsby () Kelly () Meusel () Wright

4. And just take the same list and name the player who led the National League in home runs.

5. Let's make a comparison between 1953 and 1924. Babe Ruth led the major leagues in 1924 in strikeouts. Name the player who did not exceed the Babe's 1924 total from the four listed below:

Answers to the quiz will appear in this column Wednesday.

Miss Veeda Flynn Weds Bill Collins in Indiana

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Flynn are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Veeda, to Bill Collins, son of Harry Collins, all of Carrier Mills.

The wedding took place at the Baptist church in Linton, Ind., July 3 at 8 p. m. with the Rev. Rea officiating.

The bride chose for her wedding a white lace street length dress and carried on a white Bible a bouquet of white asters. Mrs. Harry Collins Jr. was matron of honor and Harry Collins Jr., brother of the bridegroom, served as best man.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the church basement for friends and relatives. A four tiered pink and white wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom was served with punch by the hostesses, Patty Flynn, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Harry Collins.

The couple now lives in Indianapolis, Ind., where Mr. Collins is employed.

Several Carrier Mills girls enjoyed the 4-H summer camp at West Frankfort. Those who went from Carrier Mills were Mona Parks, Linda Murphy, Beverly Parks, Georgia Moore, Jane Bond, Judy Harris and Sue Hutson. For entertainment the girls participated in archery, boating, swimming and other sports. On the last night a lovely candlelight ceremony was presented in the dining hall. The group plans to go back next year.

Fires at Prowlers

AF Experiment May End KP Duty for Airmen

CHICAGO — If— Kitchen police may be a thing of the past for United States airmen if an experiment to be launched in Oklahoma next week succeeds.

Beginning July 21, a team of civilian food specialists will perform all the chow-hall duties at Vance Air Force Base, Enid, Okla. If top Air Force officials are pleased with the results, the system may be extended to other domestic Air Force establishments.

The civilians will prepare and serve the food, clean up, wash the pots and pans, and even keep the books. They'll be allowed to requisition supplies from the quartermaster, but otherwise the mess operation will be an all-civilian deal.

Ben Regan, nationwide's executive vice president, said the experiment will last for six months to a year.

"It's going to be just a routine operation with us," he added, explaining that nationwide already does the mess feeding at 11 Canadian army bases.

Regan said it will take less than 200 civilians to feed the 5,000 airmen at Vance. This will mean a saving for taxpayers, he declared, because many more men are required to operate the mess hall under the KP system.

Accepts Employment With Paducah Firm

Richard Followell, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Followell of Harrisburg, who last week graduated from Draughon's Business College, Paducah, Ky., has accepted employment as an accountant and assistant office manager with the G. & H. Plumbing Company, Paducah. Richard majored in higher accounting and business administration.
